About

The Water Well Project is a not-for-profit, health promotion charity which aims to improve the health and wellbeing of migrants, refugees and asylum seekers by improving health literacy.

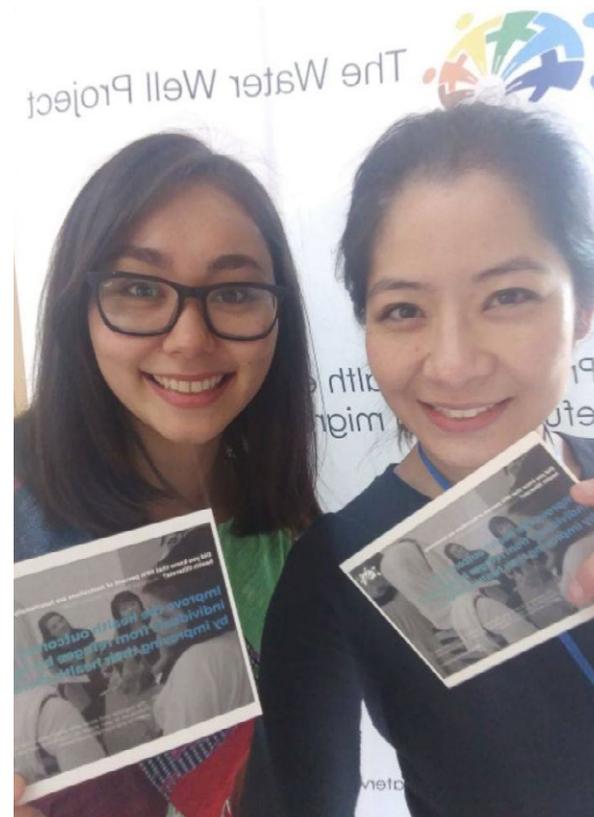

Mission:

To improve the physical and mental health of all migrants, refugees and asylum seekers, in Victoria- by improving their health literacy.

Vision:

All migrants, refugees and asylum seekers achieve equitable access to health education, care and resources to promote wellbeing.

Healthcare volunteers gain a better understanding of cultures, as well as improved communication skills with culturally and linguistically diverse (CALD) individuals and communities.

Chair's Report

Dr Linny Kimly Phuong

What can I say?

I continue to be so grateful for the support that we receive for The Water Well Project. Whether its volunteering with us, requesting community education sessions from us, promoting our organisation within your networks, providing us with pro-bono assistance or your generous donations.... Thank you!

2017-2018 has been another big year of growth for The Water Well Project. With the success of our pilot in New South Wales, and launch in Tasmania, we are heading into our next financial year as a national organisation. With this comes tighter governance, planning and opportunities.

- A big thank you to our volunteer committee (past and present) who! We appreciate the smiles you provide alongside the sharing of knowledge and expertise (see page 7 for pics).
- A big thank you to our volunteer committee who do a fantastic job in keeping our 400 healthcare professional volunteers motivated, and the organisation going from strength to strength.
- A big thank you also to all the organisations who work with us in providing health education to community groups of refugee and asylum seeker background. We have learnt so much from working with you and your communities.

Thank you to everyone for your support of The Water Well Project. We look forward to this next chapter together.

Warmest,

Governance

Mrs Isabelle Higgins, Secretary

As The Water Well Project continues to expand and develop interstate in New South Wales and Tasmania, we have been busy making sure that we continue to meet the organisation's governance and legal requirements.

The expansion interstate required a change of structure from our Victorian incorporated association to a National company limited by guarantee. We have been very lucky to receive the pro-bono help of Maddocks lawyers to help us navigate through this change. ASIC endorsed our new structure mid-June. We now have a new constitution and a new Code of Conduct for all our volunteers and are working on the strategic vision to ensure the organisation's best performance possible in the future.

Project Administrator's Report

Ms Jennifer Keyes

It has been a big year for The Water Well Project!

Last year we delivered 107 health sessions and as Project Administrator I had the pleasure of working with both our community partners and volunteers to coordinate the delivery of these sessions across Victoria and NSW. It was great to continue working with our long term partners, while also welcoming 12 new partners to our network. It's exciting to reflect on the diversity of the groups we engaged with over the past year. These ranged from men and women's groups to parent and playgroups, catering for all cultural backgrounds and ages, from young refugee mothers to senior migrants.

I am always inspired by the amazing and tireless work of our partners and I hope that our health sessions are positively impacting the communities you work with. One particular highlight for me this year has been our expansion in NSW. From small beginnings we now have a very active volunteer base, a strong partner network and an ever growing demand for sessions. As our reach broadens, so does our capacity to improve the health and wellbeing of communities from refugee and asylum seeker backgrounds across Australia.

I would also like to extend my gratitude to our wonderful team of volunteers. It has been fantastic working with you all and I am always amazed by your energy as you enthusiastically squeeze sessions in to your busy schedules! Every day I receive positive feedback from our partners following your sessions, so be assured that you are really contributing to the health literacy of the groups you meet with.

Keep up the great work!

Financial Report

Dr Timothy Martin, Treasurer

It has been a busy year for The Water Well Project with the transition to national registration – including consolidation in New South Wales and expansion to Tasmania. In the 2017–18 financial year, The Water Well Project incurred a loss of $12,892.06 with a starting balance of $51,417.53 and a closing balance of $38,525.47. Total income was $15,614.59 and expenditure was $28,506.65.

The Water Well Project received grants from the Victorian Government Department of Premier and Cabinet (Office of Multicultural Affairs and Citizenship) and The Geelong Communities Foundation. We are immensely thankful for the support of these organisations. Furthermore, we are grateful for the donations made by The Royal Children’s Hospital RMO society and Grill’d Malvern.

Additionally, we are thankful for the pro-bono support of Maddocks Lawyers, who have provided a significant amount of support in our transition to being a company, as well as to Translating and Interpreting Services (TIS) National, who continue to provide us with subsidised interpreter services. Without these kind donations and support The Project wouldn’t be able to provide the services it does so we are truly appreciative!

Total expenditure ($28,506.65) was increased compared to the 2016–17 financial year ($21,315.56). This reflects the increased reach of the organisation, including interstate, and in particular, growth of the Project Administrator role. With growth of our organisation, expenditure is projected to continue to increase in the foreseeable future. More details are available in the statement of income and expenditure.

With the ongoing growth The Water Well Project, one of the main challenges continues to be our long-term financial sustainability. Because all sessions are provided free of charge, The Water Well Project currently does not have a long-term secure income stream. The Water Well Project has primarily been supported by philanthropic grants and donations in previous years. With the expansion interstate, we will now seek alternate grant and funding streams.

Finally, I would also like to recognise the hard work of both our committee members and healthcare volunteers. This organisation runs off the back of your efforts, and together we are truly impacting on the health literacy of refugees, asylum seekers and migrants – thank you!

Programs

Ms Nicole Bate

The past year has seen great growth and achievement for The Water Well Project with us becoming a nationally registered organisation and inducting our first round of Tasmanian volunteers. New South Wales completed their first session in July last year and have been going from strength to strength with a total of 27 sessions for the year. The Victorian team have also been busy with a fantastic total of 81 sessions, a total of 108 sessions for the year.

In exciting news we have successfully included Tasmania in The Water Well Team with their first volunteer induction in February 2018. The Tasmania team have their first sessions booked for August 2018 and we look forward to their input for the rest of the year.

With The Water Well Project now operating in three states, we have been actively seeking out new referral community partners. In total we have engaged 12 new community partners in 2017/2018. For Victoria, there were 8 new partnerships and 4 for NSW. Engaging the new partners has been successful due to the great work from all areas of our Water Well Project team, from our Founder and Chair Linny engaging high level stakeholders which has resulted in new partners through to our Project Administrator Jen spreading the word with her networks. Remarkably, one of our new Victorian partners who has booked multiple sessions found out about us through word of mouth from one of our long-term existing partners who was speaking about how their community benefits from our ongoing sessions.

For the 2017/2018-year we conducted 16 different types of health education topics. Our top four sessions for the year were:

Child development and children's health (20 delivered sessions)

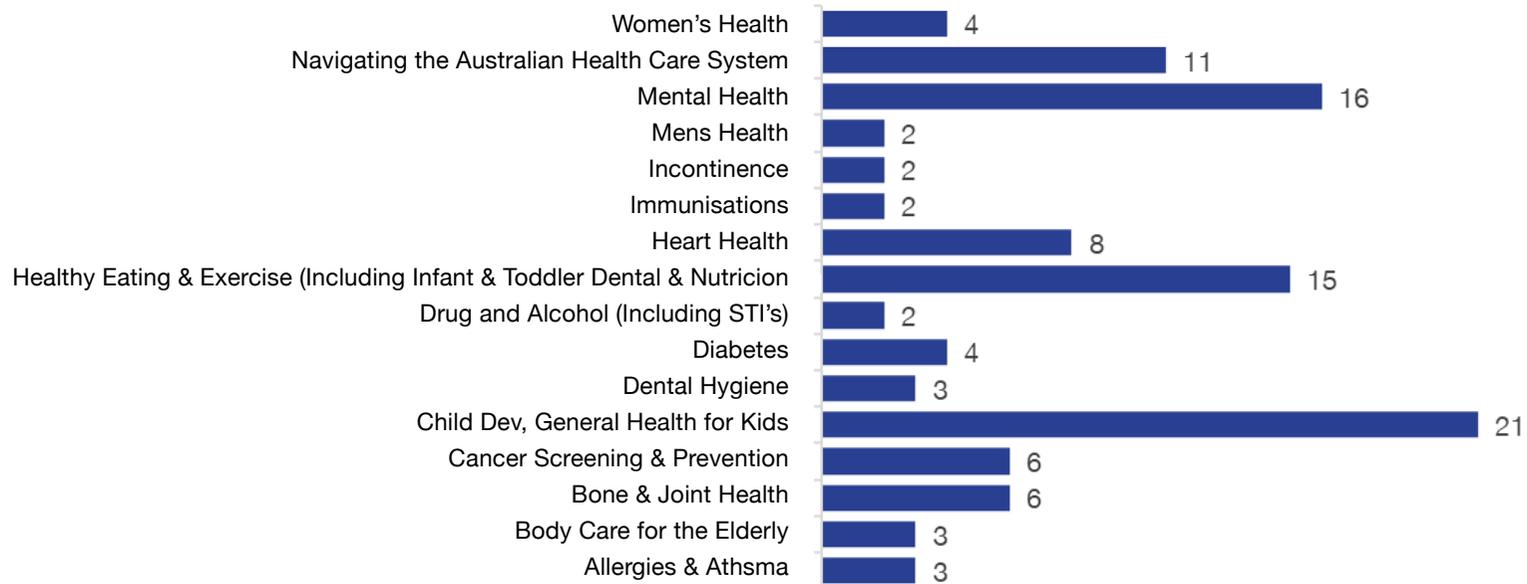

Mental Health (16 sessions)

Healthy Eating and Exercise, often incorporating Infant and Toddler Nutrition, Dental Health (15 sessions) &

Navigating the Australian Health Care System (11 sessions).

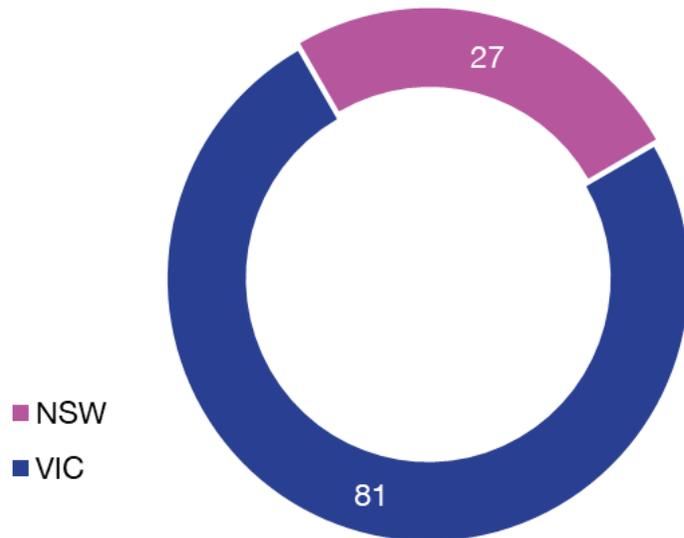

We look forward the next year and what our new partnerships and volunteers will bring.

Evaluations

Ms Emily Lawson, Dr Adam Gascoigne

In the 2017-18 financial year, 166 sessions were facilitated with an estimated 2,656 participants in attendance. Just over half (51%) indicated they had previously attended a session run by The Water Well Project. Approximately three-quarters of all sessions were conducted alongside an interpreter.

Feedback from participants

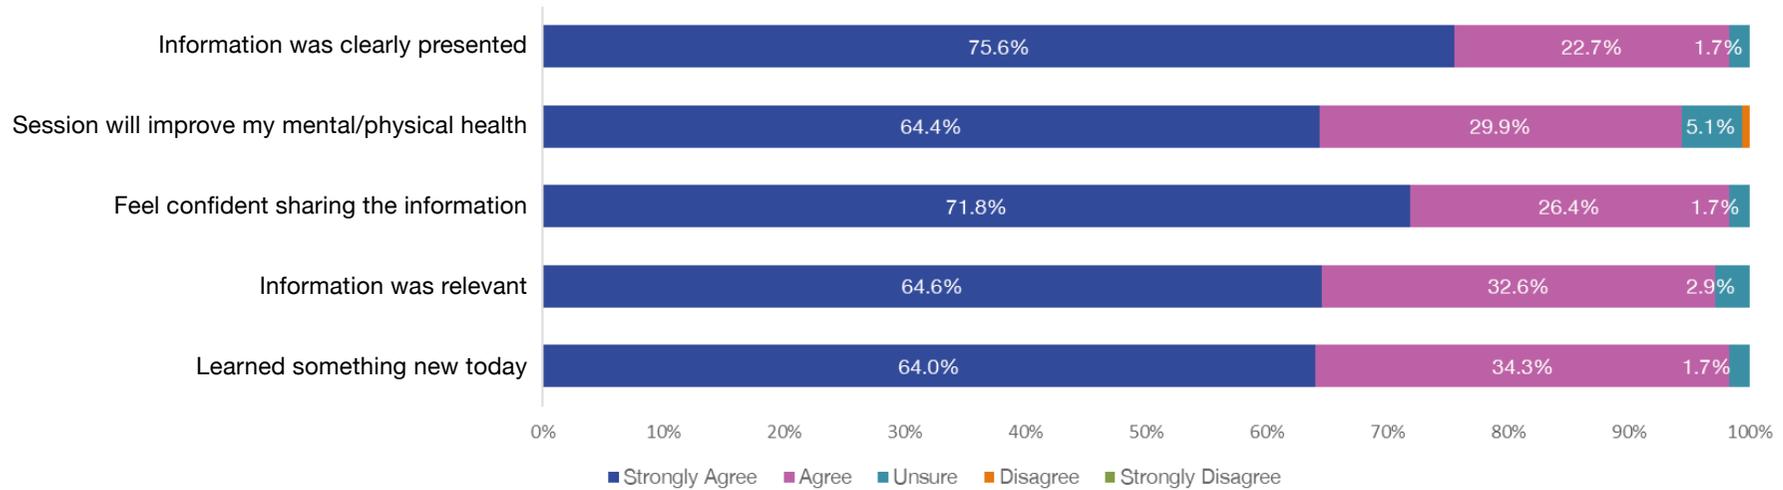

Participant feedback on the sessions facilitated by The Water Well Project was overwhelmingly positive. Analysis from participant feedback forms collected following attendance at a session found:

- 98% of respondents 'agreed' or 'strongly agreed' that they learned something new.
- 97% 'agreed' or 'strongly agreed' that they felt the information was relevant, while
- 98% felt confident sharing the information with others.
- The majority (93%) thought it would be 'easy' to apply the skills they learned in everyday life, and 94% 'agreed' or 'strongly agreed' that the session would improve their physical or mental health (Figure 1).

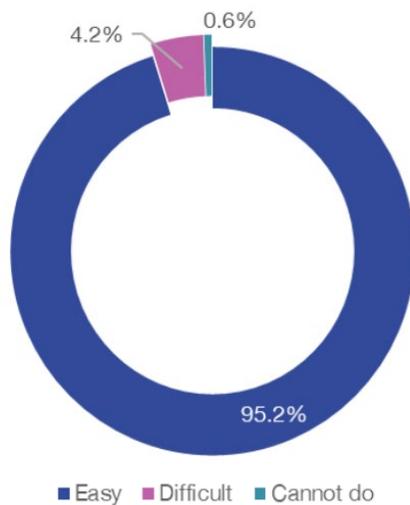

Testimonials from participants

- "Is good to know about women health because it helps me look after myself and my daughter health". (Women's Health, Aug 2017)
- "The session was very helpful. Hearing different ideas was a great help". (Healthy Eating, Aug 2017)
- "That is a good idea to help every people by this session. It helps to people how to do that easily". (Navigating the Australian Healthcare System, Aug 2017)
- "The lecture was well presented and it's so beneficial to our group. Very informative". (Mental Health session, Sept 2017)
- "They explain everything very well and we learned a lot. Thank you so much". (Diabetes and Heart Health Oct 2017)
- "I really enjoyed The Water Well Project, it's really helped us to improve our habits especially the screen time". (Child Development and General Health, Nov 2017)
- "I really like it. The session was very clear and important. I hope next time you will come with other program". (Child Development and General Health, June 2018)

Resources

Ms Julie Hjorth, Dr Alan Nguyen

A small but crucial part of the sessions run by The Water Well Project are the resources. We supply resource boxes of interactive items for the volunteers to utilise during their sessions. These resources range from a selection of informative handouts, posters and flip books, to more intriguing items like disease matching games, giant toothbrushing models and plush toys of viruses! These items aim to allow a flexibility of sessions and help engagement and message retention amongst our participants. To further help our volunteers with facilitating Water Well Project sessions, the resources team have produced a collection of topic templates with useful website links, games and interactive ideas to keep sessions engaging.

In 2017-18, the resources team worked to further establish a continual care taking system for the resources and storage shed, in order to maintain quality and consistency of objects available for volunteers when running sessions. With our expansion to Geelong, New South Wales and Tasmania, the team has been able to replicate the resources for the new centres so that these great tools are available for Water Well Project sessions everywhere.

Social Media

Dr Grace Fitzgerald

In 2017-2018 we have continued to promote the work of The Water Well Project through the use of social media and production of original health-literacy related content on our website. Our reach on Facebook and Twitter continues to spread – with current Facebook and Twitter audiences of around a thousand individuals and groups each. We're also doing our best to grow our LinkedIn audience to ensure that volunteer positions are advertised to highly skilled and motivated individuals.

A new initiative this year has been the production of pertinent refugee health issue reviews tying in with major public health events- for example World Immunisation Day and Men's Health Week. We are continuing to share resources from partner organisations in Victoria, New South Wales and Tasmania working in refugee health, and to draw attention to inspirational stories of refugee resilience.

We have been published in the peer-reviewed journal Quality in Primary Care and accepted to present a poster at the 14th National Australian Disease Management Association conference. We hope to grow our output of academic content as we continue to innovate in this area of high public health importance.

We are hoping to continue our work in increasing awareness of The Water Well Project and the work we do within communities and the refugee health space. We also want our volunteers to receive regular, digestible updates of both their connection to the broader refugee health space, and our bottomless gratitude to them for lending their skills to this important work.

Website Engagement

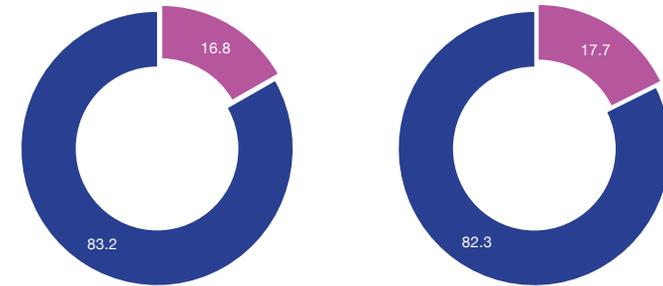

Alessio Bresciani & Thivagar Yogaparan

Over the period of this financial year, online activities have focused on:

- Growing usage of the 'events' section as a primary method for volunteers to book sessions in the community, as well as occasional use for social events and further training opportunities
- Use of the website to book Induction Sessions as TWWP has expanded to other states and territories
- Expanded use of the Blogs section, in association with Social Media campaigns
- Updating the 'Meet the Team' page to reflect changes to TWWP committee
- Updating content for the Members area of the site, in particular:
 - i) Topic Templates, which are frequently used by volunteers as a guide to sessions;
 - ii) adding several video files to the Members section to assist with volunteer training following Induction

Overall sessions for the year were at 13.1k, compared with 12k prior year. Overall users that accessed the site was 7.3k. Mobile and Tablet constitute 40% and 5% of visits respectively. Organic Search constituted 45.2% of traffic, with direct traffic 21.5%.

Volunteer Engagement

Ms Emma Thompson, Dr Ashleigh McLean

The past year has seen many successful events and exciting progress for the volunteer engagement team. With The Water Well Project's transition to a national organisation, we have focused on expanding our volunteer network to include not only more Victorian and New South Wales volunteers, but also new Tassie members!

Our amazing volunteers have had the opportunity to develop their skills at workshops on Hepatitis B and Mental Health First Aid. One of the highlights of our year has been our social event which provided volunteers the opportunity to connect and engage at Tamil Feasts over the company of the inspiring orthopaedic surgeon A/Prof Munjed Al Muderis who shared his refugee story.

Inductions in Melbourne, Geelong, NSW and an inaugural induction in Tasmania have welcomed new volunteers to the team, with improvements seen in the subsequent transition from induction to participation in facilitating community health sessions. We continue to recognise and celebrate our wonderful volunteers through Volunteer of the Month awards, and to maintain engagement via social media and Volunteer e-newsletters. Further efforts will be committed to ensuring community education sessions are filled, volunteers feel connected and rewarded; and that we continue to maintain volunteer interest and participation.

Geelong

Ms Amanda Jennings

The Water Well Project continues to provide health education sessions to a diverse range of groups in Geelong with ongoing support from the Geelong Community Foundation. This year, a set of resources has been developed locally to support local efforts, and ensure interactivity within sessions between healthcare professional volunteers and community participants.

New South Wales

Dr Leisel Trompf, Dr Brian Fernandes, Dr Nicky Betts, Dr Kezia Mansfield

It has been a busy 12 months in NSW for The Water Well Project, we have gone from a pilot project to a busy branch of The Water Well Project currently running several sessions a month. We ran our second induction this year, with 60 new volunteers inducted and a number of new partner organisations. To date we have facilitated approximately 20 sessions in NSW. We are currently planning our third induction and are working on the logistics of transitioning our governance structure with the change to a national organisation.

Tasmania

Dr Sarah Gelbart

It has been an exciting year for The Water Well Project in Tasmania. After much planning and work behind the scenes, we held our first induction for new volunteers in Hobart in April 2018. The response was overwhelming and we now have a core group of health professional volunteers from a range of disciplines engaged with the Project. We are building relationships with key community partner organisations and have our first health education sessions scheduled in July 2018.

We are also conducting a formal evaluation of the establishment of The Water Well Project here and hope the findings will be useful for other smaller centres interested in using this model to improve health literacy for their refugee and migrant communities. We presented at Public Health Prevention Conference in Sydney in May 2018 in a session entitled 'Engaging health professionals in health promotion for refugee and culturally and linguistically diverse (CALD) communities'. We look forward to continuing to build on the foundation established this year in Tasmania.

Volunteers Involved

The following listed volunteers were involved in the facilitation of community education sessions between Jul 2017 to Jun 2018. Thank you all for your contributions. We are humbled by the number of healthcare volunteers who give up their free time to facilitate health education within the community (in addition to the amazing contributions they make in their day-to-day work). We hope that you enjoyed your sessions and learnt as much from being involved as those who attended.

Patrick Byrne

Patrick Byrne is passionate about architecture and design and is currently studying architecture at university. He has already begun his architectural endeavours, working on several residential and landscape projects in Melbourne. On the side, Patrick has provided numerous creative solutions for organisations and companies such as Bar Oussou, Melbourne High School, Blame Magazine, Wonderbao and more. On top of his studies, Patrick volunteered to help The Water Well Project collate this amazing annual report because of his love of helping others and believes that The Water Well Project is a fantastic organisation that has reached out to those who need it most.
